Introduction You're on the market, but what happens when you want to place an order but don't know what to click? Now you can spend a second clicking a button instead of thinking, wondering, hesitating. OneClick is a meta trader module (often abbreviated MTM) for the broker programming environment Metatrader 4. It simplifies the trading process by offering a user-friendly interface for receiving, writing and closing trades (perform arbitrage). A number of tools are available for you to quickly place an order, modify your parameters and see what happens on the market. This is a discussion on One Click – Meta Trader in MetaTrader within the Trading forums, part of the General Trading category; Hi, I know that isnt very much info, but I do my best. What's New in the?

===== The plugin displays your trades in a relatively appealing way which will make all those multiple clicks a little less cumbersome. It looks like the professional way of trading with a great design and intuitive user interface. Inside the main window you can use the Pip Calculator, Charts, Delete All, Close All, Buy, Pairs Display, Sell, Profit/Loss, Stop Loss Display, Take Profit Display and Save functions. The application also displays the background color of each open position (buy, sell or hold), which lets you know whether the trade was profitable or not. Once you set the Stop Loss and Take Profit, OneClick will execute it by itself (up to 6 trades at a time). Other features:

===== Manual: You can set OneClick to launch on opening MetaTrader and automatically launch with MT4/MQL4 when a position is closed. You can manually launch the application at any time. Linking the application to an external file (XML) You can use the python-smb-v0.8.0 folder of OneClick to link the application to an external XML file that contains information about active orders. This can be set in the Settings tab. MQL4: OneClick is available in both GUI and C++ MQL4 versions. Setting C++ MQL4 version to TRUE will allow you to launch the application by typing its name into the MQL4 terminal. Supported EAs/Expiry types: -- MyExpiry-- You can use the core functionality of MetaTrader for MyExpiry users, but it's strongly recommended that you set the GUI version to TRUE or MQL4 version to C++ (with the help of the option, C++ MQL4 version to TRUE). Core Functionality with MyExpiry: -- Buy-- You can use the core functionality of MetaTrader for MyExpiry users, but it's strongly recommended that you set the GUI version to TRUE or MQL4 version to C++ (with the help of the option, C++ MQL4 version to TRUE). Core Functionality with MyExpiry: -- Sell-- You can use the core functionality of MetaTrader for MyExpiry users, but it's strongly recommended that you set the GUI version to TRUE or MQL4 version to C++ (with the help of the option, C++ M
